*Founder and Convener, The List Awards & Editor, The List Awards Magazine
Golden Conifer, Harare, Friday, 7 November 2025*

When I first dreamt of The List Awards, I imagined a moment that would restore dignity to how we celebrate greatness. I dreamt of a night where ordinary people doing extraordinary things would be seen and honoured, not for their fame, but for their courage, service, and impact. A night where no one would have to pay to be appreciated, but instead would be celebrated and rewarded in the presence of their people, their nation, and their continent.

That dream has now come alive, not only through this unforgettable second edition but through this, our first ever magazine, a living record of what it means to believe in people.

My journey here has been shaped by purpose, pain, perseverance, and prayer. Through Identities Media Holdings and Tag a Life International (TaLI), I have come to understand that storytelling and social justice walk hand in hand, that visibility can heal, empower, and transform. The List Awards were born from that truth, that every person who gives of themselves for others deserves to be seen, valued, and loved.

To our Board, led by Pastor Philani Nyatsanza, our Steering and Selection Committees, adjudicators, jury, voters, and partners, thank you for standing strong even in a season when civil society and corporates alike have struggled to stay afloat. Your faith in this vision has made this celebration possible.

To my mentor and mother, Hon. Senator Monica Mutsvangwa, whose guidance under the UN Women Mentorship Programme in 2014 changed my path, thank you for being here tonight as our Guest of Honour and for your steadfast belief in me through the years. To my family, my church, my team, and every single person who worked behind the scenes, your sacrifice is written into every page of this story.

And to every nominee, finalist, and winner, you are The List. You have embodied the Spirit of Ubuntu, hunhu, and today, you are no longer unsung heroes. We say to you, we see you. Your light shines for all of us.

May this magazine remind us that greatness is not measured by wealth or status, but by the light we bring to others.

*With gratitude and love,
Adv, Nyaradzo*

HONOURING INTEGRITY, CELEBRATING EXCELLENCE

BY PASTOR PHILANI NYATSANZA, CHAIRPERSON, THE LIST AWARDS BOARD

As I reflect on this year’s journey of The List Awards, I am filled with immense pride in what this platform has come to represent, integrity, authenticity, and the restoration of dignity in how we celebrate excellence. The List Awards were created to honour women and men who quietly transform lives and communities, often without recognition, yet whose work embodies the true spirit of service, leadership, and ubuntu.

As Board Chairperson, my role, together with our dedicated Board members, is to safeguard the integrity and independence of the process, ensuring that every recognition is earned through merit, fairness, and transparency. I am profoundly grateful to the Selection Committee, adjudicators, jury, and voters whose collective efforts defined the credibility of this year’s results, as well as to our sponsors, partners, and organising team for their unwavering belief in this vision.

From our inaugural edition to this second, The List Awards continue to evolve into a regional platform of excellence and inspiration. Together, we celebrate Africa’s unsung heroes and reaffirm our commitment to sustaining this legacy of honour.

REFLECTIONS FROM THE CHAIRPERSON OF THE SELECTION COMMITTEE;

ADVOCATE CHINGA GOVHATI

I am deeply honoured to represent the seven members of our Selection Committee, a team drawn from diverse professional backgrounds, united by a shared commitment to fairness, excellence, and integrity. Together, we have presided over The List Awards 2025 process with diligence, transparency, and care from beginning to end.

Our journey began on 8 July when nominations officially opened for the second edition, guided by a clear framework set by the Steering Committee to ensure credibility. Our work was made easier as we built on the strong foundations laid by the inaugural Selection Committee, whose powerful work in the first edition set high standards for independence and quality. As we monitored performance during the nomination period, we observed limited participation in the three Pan-African categories targeting Southern and East Africa. To promote diversity and wider access, we extended the closing date from 17 to 24 August, working with partners to mobilise more entries.

Once adjudicators were trained on 4 September and completed their first selection on 7 September, determining the Top 5 or 6 nominees per category, two distinct tracks followed. Categories such as Youth Impact and Entertainment Impact proceeded to public voting from 17 September to 5 October, while others including Humanitarian Business Impact, Social Impact, Climate, Environment, and Human Rights were assessed by an independent jury on 27 September. This ensured that the awards were not based solely on popularity but also reflected inclusion and recognition of those doing remarkable work in hard-to-reach communities with limited online presence.

The voting system was simplified yet highly secure, using an IP-based verification mechanism that detected repeat votes within a 12-hour window to ensure fairness and prevent duplication. Every stage honoured professionalism, fairness, and respect for all nominees. I am proud that this Year’s winners and runners-up reflect a process grounded in integrity, diversity, and genuine celebration of Zimbabwe and Africa’s unsung heroes.

REFLECTIONS FROM THE JURY

BY WILLS WATAFI JURY MEMBER,
THE LIST AWARDS 2025

Serving on the jury for The List Awards 2025 has been both a privilege and a profound experience. This year we received truly remarkable applications — the quality, depth, and diversity of the submissions have improved significantly, and we were deeply moved by the incredible work people are doing across different communities.

Reviewing the entries for categories such as Business Impact, Humanitarian Impact, Social Impact, and Poverty Alleviation was both inspiring and challenging. It is never easy to choose a winner when confronted with such excellence. The initial selection work by the adjudicators, who narrowed each category down to five or six nominees, made our task clearer, yet also more difficult, because the calibre of candidates was exceptionally high.

What touched us most was the diversity — not only between urban and rural contexts, but also across the regions of our nation and continent. From Harare to Bulawayo, from Matabeleland to Masvingo, and beyond Zimbabwe's borders into Africa, the representation was rich and humbling. The stories of those who are building communities, businesses, and aspirit of Pan-Africanism reaffirmed our belief in the goodness and resilience of our people. It has been a joy to serve as part of this process. On behalf of my fellow jury members, I wish to express deep gratitude to the Board, the Convener, and the entire List Awards team for creating such a credible and meaningful platform of recognition. We are privileged to play a small part in this celebration of integrity, service, and humanity.

Calvin Manika:

Championing Marginalized Voices through Journalism
- Winner of the Storytelling/ Journalism Impact Award.

Calvin Manika is a passionate journalist from Zimbabwe and the Managing Director of The Besana Mail, known for his in-depth reporting on human rights and development issues in Hwange and Matabeleland North. His work highlights marginalized communities often overlooked in mainstream narratives, focusing on environmental justice and indigenous rights. Calvin has exposed the human cost of unregulated coal mining, documenting its impacts on local communities and wildlife. His articles, featured in Al Jazeera and The Africa Report, amplify neglected voices and drive recognition of regional challenges. When he's not reporting, Calvin enjoys engaging with community initiatives that foster dialogue and empowerment.

The Integrity Pillars of The List Awards 2025

Every great institution stands on its pillars. Behind the glamour of The List Awards are the men and women who guard its soul, ensuring that celebration is built on fairness, integrity, and love for community. This is the story of the unseen architecture that holds The List Awards together. Integrity is not an act; it is our architecture, the invisible thread that binds fairness, excellence, and humanity in every step of The List Awards journey. Behind every beautiful celebration of excellence lies a story of structure, diligence, and shared purpose. The List Awards is more than a ceremony; it is a journey of integrity, inclusion, and collaboration. Each body within its framework plays a distinct yet connected role, ensuring that every recognition stands on the foundation of fairness, authenticity, and the spirit of hunhu/ubuntu.

1. THE BOARD

The Board of The List Awards has been the cornerstone of this vision since its inauguration in 2024. Comprising leaders, innovators, and thinkers from diverse sectors, the Board stands as the moral compass of the Awards. Beyond governance, its members mentor, advise, and mobilise support to ensure sustainability and credibility. Their guidance goes beyond policy; it is a lived commitment to protecting the heart of The List Awards. Through their wisdom and hands-on leadership, the Board safeguards the dream, nurturing a platform that continues to shine as a symbol of integrity, excellence, and community celebration.

2. THE SELECTION COMMITTEE

The Selection Committee, established by the Board, is the guardian of integrity, ensuring that every process aligns with best practice and fairness. It defines the categories, frameworks, and criteria that uphold the Awards' credibility. Working closely with the Secretariat, the Committee ensures that every step, from nominations to adjudication and public voting, reflects transparency and equity. Within this structure, the Committee also supervises two key arms, the Jury and the Adjudicators, maintaining oversight to ensure accountability and quality control. Some members participate in select processes, but their primary duty is to uphold authenticity and excellence.

THE ADJUDICATION PROCESS

The Adjudicators are the first point of contact in the Awards process. Trained by experts and guided by a shared ethos of fairness, they meticulously assess nominations using a clear scorecard rooted in evidence and impact. Their review goes beyond paperwork as they conduct verification and independent research to ensure that every claim is credible. From hundreds of submissions, the Adjudicators identify the Top Five Finalists in each category, those whose work truly embodies innovation, community impact, and The List Awards values. Their diligence ensures that those who advance to the next stage have genuinely earned their place.

3. THE JURY

After adjudication, the Jury assumes its role as the second lens of evaluation. This team of distinguished leaders and experts reviews the Adjudicators' recommendations with careful deliberation. Focusing on categories not subject to public voting, the Jury's task is to ensure that winners are chosen not by popularity but by the depth of their contribution, integrity, and measurable impact.

The Jury's process is both analytical and compassionate. They go beyond visibility to examine the heart of each nominee's work, verifying outcomes and assessing how each initiative uplifts even the most marginalised. They deliberate about diversity, representation, and inclusion, ensuring that even those without digital presence or media recognition are seen and valued. Their verdict reflects balance and fairness, recognising both the celebrated and the unseen, united by their shared commitment to transformation, community, and the spirit of hunhu/ubuntu.

4. THE VOTER

The voters are the heartbeat of The List Awards. Through their participation, they breathe life into its democratic spirit, celebrating the individuals and initiatives that inspire them. Public voting takes place in categories such as Entertainment Impact, Influencer Impact, and Role Model of the Year, giving communities a direct voice in honouring those who move them. This year, The List Awards achieved an impressive balance between accessibility and integrity within its digital voting platform. The system was designed for ease of participation while maintaining the highest security standards, with measures such as IP tracking, time-based limits, and a twelve-hour voting interval per device. These safeguards protected fairness and credibility while ensuring the process remained open, inclusive, and user friendly. Through this transparent process, the public confidently selected their favourite unsung heroes and impact makers, those whose influence, compassion, and innovation continue to shape communities for the better.

TOGETHER, THEY UPHOLD THE SPIRIT OF THE LIST

Each pillar, the Board, the Selection Committee, the Adjudicators, the Jury, and the Voters, forms part of a greater ecosystem of trust and excellence. Together, they ensure that The List Awards remains transparent, credible, inclusive, and deeply human. It is through this collaboration that the Awards continue to stand as a symbol of leadership, authenticity, and celebration across Zimbabwe and Africa. The List Awards honours not just the seen, but the unseen, the dreamers, builders, and believers who quietly shape a better world — guided always by the spirit of hunhu/ubuntu.

BETTER FUTURES: BUILDING HOPE BEYOND THE MOMENT

OLD MUTUAL

At The List Awards, we honour the everyday heroes, the teachers, health workers, social innovators, entrepreneurs, and visionaries, who quietly and consistently move Zimbabwe forward, often in the face of immense challenges.

Their stories are powerful reminders that resilience is more than enduring hardship; it is about imagining a brighter future and working relentlessly to achieve it, with heart, purpose, and unwavering conviction.

This spirit is the driving force behind Old Mutual's Better Futures initiative. It's a call to action for communities to regain the confidence to save, to plan, and to dream again, even after years of economic uncertainty.

Better Futures is not just a financial programme; it's a movement to restore trust and belief in tomorrow. It champions the idea that every small act of saving contributes not only to personal and family security, but also to the collective strength and stability of our nation.

"Our goal is to inspire communities to start saving again, even in difficult times," says Sam Matsekete, Group CEO of Old Mutual Zimbabwe. "When families save, they create vital safety nets for the future. And when we save collectively, we fuel the growth of our economy and the infrastructure that sustains it."

Rutendo Magorimbo, Managing Director of Old Mutual Life Assurance, echoes this sentiment: "We have lived through tough seasons, but we cannot afford to give up. We must keep moving forward. We must build the Zimbabwe we want, not just for ourselves, but for our children and future generations."

Like the everyday heroes we celebrate tonight, Better Futures is built on courage, commitment, and hope, the kind of hope that doesn't just endure but transforms, laying the foundation for real, lasting change

THE SOUND OF IMPACT

When music becomes more than melody, it transforms into movement. By Identities Media Magazine

Hope Masike, the Queen of Mbira Music and winner of the 2024 List Awards Entertainment Impact Award, embodies the essence of transformation through art. Her story is one of courage, healing, and conviction, a journey where art becomes activism and rhythm becomes voice. When she graced the stage at the inaugural List Awards in 2024, her performance stirred emotion and pride, setting a new standard for artistic excellence and social consciousness.

This year, she returns once again to entertain guests, her music echoing the spirit of empowerment that defines the Awards. Crowned for her unique ability to blend traditional Zimbabwean sounds with contemporary rhythm, Hope now weaves hymns into her mbira compositions, creating a spiritual and soulful sound that connects culture, faith, and modern expression. She has also successfully collaborated internationally, bringing African identity and heritage to global audiences while celebrating unity through music.

Her brave decision to speak publicly about her battle with fibroids turned private pain into public awareness, breaking the silence around women's health and inspiring women to seek help and healing. Having overcome fibroids herself, Hope now stands as a symbol of strength and restoration, proving that openness can heal and healing can inspire.

As the first cover girl of Identities Media Magazine, Hope Masike represents resilience, creativity, and purpose. Her story reminds us that true artistry lives where courage meets compassion, where every note becomes a call to restore dignity, celebrate identity, and ignite change.

“Music gave me healing, and healing gave me purpose.”

AT THE HEART OF IDENTITIES MEDIA LIES TAG A LIFE INTERNATIONAL (TALI)

At the heart of Identities Media, the parent company behind The List Awards, lies Tag a Life International (TaLI) — a movement of hope, empowerment, and transformation for girls and young women across Zimbabwe.

Founded in 2010 by Advocate Nyaradzo “Nyari” Mashayamombe, TaLI began as a simple dream to create a world where girls are protected, educated, and free to lead. Over the years, that dream has touched thousands of lives and inspired a new generation of young women who believe in themselves and in their power to change their communities.

FROM COMMUNITY WORK TO CREATIVE STORYTELLING

Through its mentorship and empowerment programmes, especially the Leadership Economic Mentorship Hubs (LEMHS), TaLI has reached more than 6,500 young women and community members, helping them build confidence, start small businesses, return to school, and raise their voices on issues that matter.

It was from this life-changing work that Identities Media was born, a creative and communications company designed to give voice to the stories TaLI helped create while also building sustainability for its work. Through media, film, and storytelling, Identities Media turns real experiences into stories that move hearts and minds, ensuring that impact goes hand in hand with inspiration.

THE LIST AWARDS: WHERE IMPACT MEETS CELEBRATION

Out of this vision came The List Awards, a glamorous yet purposeful celebration of Unsung Heroes from Zimbabwe, Southern and East Africa. It is an evening where elegance meets meaning and where every ticket and partnership helps fuel TaLI’s programmes for girls and young women.

What began as a platform to celebrate others has become a beautiful circle of purpose. Identities Media creates, The List Awards celebrates, and TaLI continues to change lives.

THE HEARTBEAT OF IT ALL

TaLI’s story is not one of charity but of possibility. From young mothers starting businesses, to survivors of violence finding their voices, to communities embracing renewable energy and education for all, every achievement speaks to the resilience and brilliance of women and girls when given the chance to shine.

Many of TaLI’s young women are now taking part in leadership and politics, standing for positions in their communities, local councils, and youth movements. They are living proof that when girls are empowered early, they grow into women who lead with confidence, compassion, and courage.

As Identities Media continues to grow and tell stories that matter, Tag a Life International remains its heartbeat — the reason behind every celebration and the reminder that true impact happens when we give back.

BECAUSE WHEN WE CELEBRATE OTHERS, WE SUSTAIN HOPE.
